Premier foreword

It is my distinct honour to welcome you all to the much-awaited Gauteng Construction Expo 2024. This event stands as a beacon of hope and opportunity, not only for our province but for our nation as a whole.

In a country where unemployment remains a pressing issue, especially among the youth, women, and persons with disabilities and military veterans initiatives such as this Expo are not just desirable but imperative. Our goal is clear: to empower small, micro, and medium enterprises (SMMEs) and underrepresented groups by providing them with the necessary tools and knowledge to thrive in the construction industry.

The Expo serves as a platform to showcase not only the vast business and job opportunities available within the construction sector but also to demystify the complexities of government tendering processes. We are committed to ensuring that SMMEs of women, youth, persons with disabilities, and military veterans have equal access to these opportunities and are equipped with the know-how to navigate bureaucratic procedures seamlessly.

One of the key focuses of this Expo is to facilitate the registration of SMMEs with the South African Revenue Service (SARS) and to ensure compliance with tax regulations. We recognise that tax compliance is not only a legal obligation but also a crucial aspect of sustainable business growth.

Furthermore, through our partnership with the National Treasury, we aim to assist SMMEs in registering with the Central Supplier Database (CSD), thereby opening doors for them to engage in business with the public sector. This not only expands their market reach but also contributes to the development of a more inclusive and robust economy.

Additionally the Expo will showcase the myriad of business opportunities within Gauteng Province's various departments and construction projects. These projects hold the potential to create employment opportunities for thousands of designated groups, thereby addressing the scourge of unemployment that plagues our society.

In conclusion, the Gauteng Construction Expo 2024 underscores our unwavering commitment to fostering an environment where every individual, regardless of background or circumstance, has the opportunity to succeed. Let us seize the boundless possibilities that lie ahead and work towards building a brighter and more prosperous future for all.

I extend my heartfelt gratitude to all participants, partners, and stakeholders for their unwavering support in making this Expo a reality. Let us build together, because together, we will continue to pave the way towards a more inclusive and equitable society. Re Aga Mmogo.

Yours sincerely,

Panyaza Lesufi

MEC foreword

The fight for transformation and equality within the construction sector is one that we should be at the forefront of as government; unlocking sector value chains and creating opportunities for previously disadvantaged individuals and communities; more specifically those who fall within the designated groups of women, youth, persons with disabilities, and military veterans; to be mainstreamed so that they can participate more meaningfully and significantly within the industry and all its economic linkages, as owners, managers and innovative asset and wealth builders.

With the progressive programmes that we have put in place as government, women, youth, persons with disabilities and military veterans have definitely made significant strides within the construction sector, however there is still much work to be done to ensure that they have access to more opportunities and are given the kind of support that will enable them to thrive and flourish, as they build sustainable entities.

It is with this in mind that the Gauteng Provincial Government will be hosting its first Construction Expo, targeting these designated groups in order to ensure that we can be better positioned to meet our targets with regards to preferential procurement, which currently stands at 40% for women-owned businesses, 30% for youth-owned businesses and 7% for those businesses owned by persons with disabilities.

aims to practically assist with unlocking opportunities for those business people who fall within these designated groups in the construction sector, assist them with registration and compliance in order to better position them to access procurement opportunities, provide mentorship and supplier registration as well as skills development, bring innovative approaches to access to funding and market access challenges, incubation programmes, packaging of business opportunities per department and also with developing manufacturing capacity for them within the sector so as to be able to compete and participate meaningfully within industry value chains.

As a provincial government, through the expo, our aim is to showcase our commitment to the transformation of the construction sector as part of the broader economy, particularly for the empowerment of women, youth, persons with disabilities, and military veterans. The transformation of the sector, bringing in new players from previously disadvantaged backgrounds, will not only benefit those who fall within these designated groups, but rather it will also benefit the industry as a whole by bringing in new perspectives and ideas that can drive innovation and growth.

We want to mobilise industry stakeholders, the private sector at large, government as a whole within the various spheres, strata, and broader society to recognise and value the immense contribution that women, youth, persons with disabilities, and military veterans can make within the construction sector and to work together in a systematic, structured, methodical, deliberate and intentional manner in order to eliminate any bottlenecks and barriers that prevent people from within these designated groups from building and leading entities within this industry that are sustainable and successful.
